Transnational meeting

ZIARNO, Słubice (Poland), 17-18 April 2013

Scope of the meeting

Aim of the meeting will be to discuss how to transfer best practices between EU member states. In the EU a lot is being said about the need to transfer success models to other countries, but this is easier said than done. There are many regional, national and EU funding programs that intend to enable this. But a transfer can take many different forms and go through many different stages, and many times these public programs cover one chapter of the entire history. During our stay in ZIARNO we will try to give more clarity on the various concepts and support programs available today. We will discuss from the experience of the participants what the best paths are in order to enable and execute these transfers.

Additionally, projects being transferred between some of our participants will report on their advancements, we will plan together the closing conference in November this year and as requested by some participants, there will be an open session where you, the participants, will discuss the topics of your choice.

ZIARNO

The meeting will be kindly hosted by Ewa Smuk at the association ZIARNO. Together with our main activities we will have time to enjoy some local cultural activities.

The association ZIARNO ("Seed" in English) works in the context of Polish village and is involved in educational work: education for sustainability, environmental education on organic farming, cultural and social education in small villages.
